

EXETER PUBLIC LIBRARY INTERNET ACCESS POLICY

As part of the Exeter Public Library's mission to meet the information, educational, cultural and recreational needs of the community and in response to the advances in technology in the Information Age, the Library is pleased to offer public Internet access. All Library users are allowed equal access to resources available on the Internet.

Information and resources on the Internet can enhance the materials available at the Library. The Library does not monitor the Internet, or have control over information accessed through the Internet. Not all sites on the Internet provide accurate, complete or current information and access points often change or are unpredictable. Some sites may carry information that a user finds controversial or inappropriate. Each individual user must accept responsibility for determining content.

Parents or guardians, not the Library or its staff, must be responsible for the Internet information selected and/or accessed by their children. Parents are encouraged to come in with their children and supervise Internet access at the Library.

Internet computers will not be used for illegal activity, to access illegal material, including child pornography, or to access materials, which by local community standards, would be considered obscene. The viewing of certain materials in the public library may be considered inappropriate in time, place, or manner. If Internet searching results in disruption of Library services, or if a patron's behavior, when using the Internet resources becomes inappropriate for a public library setting, the Library reserves the right to end the session. If similar situations continue to occur with a patron or patrons, the Library reserves the right to prohibit the patron or patrons from using the library.

Staff may assist users with their Internet searches.
